

News for Release: 21 June 2009

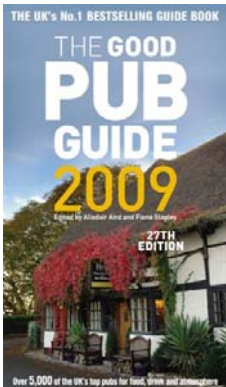

SUMMER CHEERS! FIND ALL PUBS ON WWW.THEGOODPUBGUIDE.CO.UK

Will the sun shine on Father's Day? Hedge your bets with The Good Pub Guide website

This summer The Good Pub Guide unveils its new interactive website which provides an on-the-move and up-to-the-minute guide to all UK pubs. So even without the book, you can get the invaluable guidance of its decades of expertise and hot tips from its many thousand reader-reporters, free from its new website www.thegoodpubguide.co.uk.

"Over one in four of our thousand-plus top pub recommendations has a really nice garden," says editor Fiona Stapley. "So if the weather turns up trumps, you can enjoy all the best of British pubbing outside, in appealing surroundings. But if it turns grey, what you'll find inside will be top-notch too." The Guide's spot-on descriptions take you to good waterside pubs, too - around one in twelve of the better pubs is well placed by river, sea or lake.

Backed up by countless reader reports, The Good Pub Guide 2009 (Ebury Press, £15.99) is easily the UK's bestselling guidebook to British pubs and is the only truly independent guide of its kind. The accompanying website www.thegoodpubguide.co.uk provides browsers with access to over 55,000 pubs with features that help find the perfect destination for that special outing.

The entire list of carefully selected Good Pub Guide recommendations and descriptions from the UK's annual guidebook is on the site with the added bonus of latest news, customer ratings and comments with space for publicans to announce 'what's on' every week. Each entry has full contact details and an integrated Google map.

Spokespeople available for interview:

David McCoy, Digital Commercial Manager, Random House
Alisdair Aird and Fiona Stapley, joint editors of The Good Pub Guide 2009

Press enquiries to:

Claire Bowles Publicity on 01858 565800
claire@clairebowlespr.co.uk